QA Manual Tester

Despre mine

We all know that IT is our present and our future, and why I can't be involved in this big world, this question was in my mind months, until I started learning. After some courses with introduction I started to learn new field, new profession to challenge myself and to become a part of the IT industry as a Manual Tester from start, and in future career to become an Automation Tester, why not. With my motivation and interest I started spending a lot of time on learning information and practice as much as I can about all types of testing, manual testing, automation, Java, JavaScript, Agile Methodologies, and so on. I know I'm almost new and I can name myself as a Junior in this domain, but, this still give me a lot of motivation for spending hours every day for practicing and learning, I invest a lot of time in mine studies, so now it's the correct moment for a big start to work in professional company.
